A. Proclamation, Proclaiming the month of April as Child Abuse Prevention Month, Sexual Assault Prevention Month and April 22-26, 2024, as Crime Victims' Rights Week

Mayor Rosener read the proclamation aloud which stated that Oregon had higher rates of domestic violence, sexual assault, and childhood trauma than the national average. He stated that child abuse and sexual violence were some of the most serious public health issues, with numerous studies documenting the link between trauma and a wide range of medical, emotional and psychological, and behavioral experiences with both short- and long-term effects. Mayor Rosener stated that children who experienced abuse were uniquely affected because they were still developing and therefore suffered lifelong effects to their physical and emotional health and that sexual violence resulted in people navigating long-term mental and physical health impacts. He stated that sexual violence, childhood abuse, and interpersonal crime effected people of all ages, races, and orientations, but disproportionately affected children and adults with vulnerabilities, communities of color, and those impacted by systemic inequities. He stated that the impacts of violence and abuse of individuals were expensive to our whole community and the prevention of these traumas was the best and most cost-effective method of ensuring a healthy and equitable community for all. Mayor Rosener stated that when harm did occur, "we are determined to respond by helping survivors find not only safety, healing and justice, but also equitable access to services, a sense of hope for their future, and the tools to rebuild their lives." He proclaimed April 2024 as Child Abuse Prevention Month, Sexual Assault Awareness Month and the week of April 22-26, 2024 to be Crime Victims' Rights Week; reaffirming the city's commitment to supporting a coordinated and collaborative community of providers that delivered intervention and prevention services of violence and abuse all year long.

Mayor Rosener addressed the next agenda item.

B. Proclamation, Proclaiming April 7-13, 2024, as National Library Week

Mayor Rosener read the proclamation aloud which stated that libraries provided the opportunity for everyone to pursue their passions no matter where they were on life's journey. He stated that libraries had long served as trusted institutions that strove to ensure equitable access to information and services for all members of the community regardless of race, ethnicity, creed, ability, sexual orientation, gender identity, or socio-economic status. He stated that libraries adapted to the ever-changing needs of their communities, developing and expanding collections, programs, and services that were as diverse as the populations they served; and libraries were accessible and inclusive places that promoted a sense of local connection, advancing understanding, civic engagement, and shared community goals. He stated that libraries played a pivotal role in the economic vitality of communities by providing internet and technology access, literacy skills, and support for job seekers, small businesses, and entrepreneurs; and libraries were treasured institutions that preserved our collective heritage and knowledge, safeguarding resources for present and future generations. He stated that libraries were an essential public good and fundamental institution in democratic societies that worked to protect the right to education and literacy and promoted the free exchange of information and ideas for all. Mayor Rosener proclaimed April 7-13, 2024 as National Library Week and encouraged Sherwood residents to explore the Sherwood library and engage with their librarian.
